DESCRIPTION OF ARTICLES:

Your audience are fellow members of the trade, therefore your description should cover all the classic attributes that create value – species, size, origin, colour, clarity and cut. Accurate information is the cornerstone of trading with trust on Gembridge. Your peers rely on you to faithfully record distinguishing features, as well as treatments and imperfections - those visible to the eye and also under magnification. Issues with a stone must be addressed e.g. small surface reaching fissures on the pavilion, or slight silk under the table, whether major distractions or not.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Please also share any interesting stories, provenance or anecdotes about the stone or piece - up to 500 characters.

Gembridge asks that an image is provided of both faces of a stone (1 & 2) to ensure that any imperfections that might not show on one face, but do on the other, are visible, and one of the stone face down (3) to ensure that Gembridge clients can appraise potential purchases with the highest degree of detail.

Please photograph your item on a white background, positioned in the centre of the frame and in good light, making sure the colour is captured as accurately as possible.
